

P-CARD REALLOCATION PROCESS

UPDATED 01/24/17

The P-Card reallocation process changed slightly with the implementation of MIP Fund Accounting on 07/01/16. Previously, P-Card charges were reallocated directly in Citibank. The new process allows for P-Card charges to be imported into MIP where P-Card reallocators will move charges within the accounting software. On Monday of each week, the P-Card charges will be imported into MIP from Citibank and re-allocators will have until 5pm Thursday of the same week to make the necessary changes. Any charges not reallocated by the Thursday deadline will require a journal voucher in order to move the charges.

- After the Thursday reallocation deadline, Accounting will run a report to look for any unposted transactions that are coded to “59999” indicating charges have not been reallocated and will notify the reallocators one last time to reallocate the charges.
- If charges are not reallocated within the allowed time frame, Accounting will post the entry and then run a posted transaction report filtering object code 59999.
- Users will be notified that they need to submit a journal voucher to make the changes.
